34th Annual Cancer Day

Description and Objectives

A conference for physicians and other medical professionals desiring important medical information on current oncology topics. The conference will focus on current patient management based on nationally recognized guidelines.

After participating in this activity, physicians and nurses will be more confident in their ability to:

1. Understand the difference between previvorship and survivorship levels of care for the patient.
2. Clarify the differences between palliative care and hospice care.
3. Identify high-risk patients that may need additional evaluation by specialists, including oncologists, thoracic surgeons and pulmonologists.
4. Updated with the most up to date obstetrics and gynecology cancer screening guidelines.
5. Discuss downsides of referral, including complications from biopsy and prostate cancer treatment.
6. Recognize signs and symptoms of anal and rectal cancer.
7. Better understand utilization of feeding tubes and ports for patients undergoing various stages of cancer treatment.
